DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hosomi et al. (US 5,833,380).

With respect to claim 1, Hosomi et al. discloses a printer unit with a guide path as shown by the paper in the Figure below taken from Figure 4 of Hosomi et al.:

Hosomi et al. further discloses a printing section having a latten P and a printhead H, a cutter section with a stationary blade 14 and a movable blade 9 with the guide path located therebetween. Figure 5 of Hosomi et al. shows a first unit located on one side of the guide path and having the platen P and the stationary blade 14 and a second unit located on the other side of the guide path having the printhead H and the movable blade 9. As shown in Figures 4-5 the first unit supports the second unit. Hosomi et al. additionally discloses a connecting mechanism 8,12 which removably connects the first unit to the second unit. The connecting mechanism 8,12 is capable of being disassembled or broken off in order to completely separate the second unit from the first unit.

3. Claims 1-4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Robinson (US 6,447,187).

With respect to claim 1, Robinson discloses a printer unit with a guide path that passes through a printing section including a platen 50 and a printhead 60 as shown in Figure 4c of Robinson. Robinson further discloses a cutter section with a stationary blade 42 and a movable blade 44 with the guide path located therebetween. In Figure 4a Robinson shows a second unit located on one side of the guide path and having the platen 50 and the movable blade 44 and a first unit located on the other side of the guide path having the printhead 60 and the stationary blade 42. A connecting mechanism which removably connects the first unit to the second unit is formed by the end shafts of the platen 50 (one of which is shown in Figure 2) and the notch 25 shown in Figure 4a such that the first unit supports the second unit as shown below in the Figure taken from Figure 4a of Robinson:

Art Unit: 2854

As can be seen above, when the second unit is pivoted upwards, it is completely separated from the first unit.

With respect to claim 2, the above Figure shows a unit support section on which the first unit is supported. The first unit could be removed by removing what appears to be a connector of some sort. If it is not a connector, the first unit could be removed by breaking it off of the unit support section.

With respect to claim 3, the connecting mechanism has a plurality of connecting shafts (only one is shown in the above Figure) mounted in the second unit, the axes of which are orthogonal to the direction of the guide path of the paper, and a plurality of support sections provided in the first unit for fitting the connecting shafts.

With respect to claim 4, the platen 50 has a paper support section and a support shaft at either end of the paper support section to serve as one of the connecting shafts as shown in the above Figure.

With respect to claim 6, Robinson discloses a movable blade holding section 30 which is mounted on the unit holding the movable blade as shown in Figure 1 of Robinson. The blade could be removed by disassembling the second unit.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 8-9 are allowed.

5. Claims 5 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim and objected to for the above mentioned informalities, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims and rewritten to overcome the informalities.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 2/1/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive of any error in the above rejection.

The above rejection has been modified from the version in the previous Office action in order to meet applicant's new claim language. With respect to the Robinson rejection, applicant may note that the first unit and second unit have been switched in order to meet applicant's new claim language.

It is noted that most structure that can be assembled is also capable of being removed or separated in one way or another.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2854

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
